The Expediting Management Association Inc. was founded in 1978 as a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of professional expediting. The focus of the Association is the development of sound expediting techniques and practices as cost-effective business tools, and the training of our members in their use. Membership is open to expeditors and all others with an interest in this function, regardless of their job title.

The Association offers many training tools, including the Expediting Handbook and the Expediting Check List Manual. Our Professional Development Program offers an opportunity to qualify and be recognized as a Certified Expeditor or Certified Expediting Manager. Since training is a primary goal of the Association, the improvement, revision and expansion of our Professional Development Program is a continuous process.

In addition to training for individual members, the Expediting Management Association Inc. offers corporate training modules. These training sessions are conducted by experienced Certified Training Instructors and stress the principles of proactive expediting.

All members receive the Association's bimonthly newsletter, the EMANator. Through its regular columns and feature articles, it serves as a vital communication link, helping our membership, scattered over four continents, to stay in touch. Membership in the EMA opens up an international communications network of expediting professionals to you, your company and your clients. The exchange of ideas between members is encouraged, "one on one", through the EMANator, and on our website. Dialog between members and peer support are the core of the Association.

Our Annual Workshop/Conference combines the Association General Meeting and presentations by Association members and outside speakers. Topics cover various Material Management and Logistics subjects from the perspective of expediting. Ongoing training and the development of new skills are stressed. These are very much working sessions, with active participation encouraged. In addition to these Workshops, regional seminars are held at conference centers, universities and host companies.

To better serve the needs of our members, the establishment of Regional Chapters is encouraged. At present the Greater Houston Expedition Management Association (GHEMA) has been established in Houston. Other Chapters are planned in various geographical areas as membership warrants.

The Expediting Management Association Inc. offers many rewards to the member and to his or her company. Take advantage of this unique opportunity to improve your skills, to become more effective and to grow both professionally and personally.
